We are thankful for the restful (hopefully) week off and pray you all had a great Christmas and New Year. It is hard to believe that the new year is here. We are excited for the many things we have planned this year and are looking forward to the many new things the children will be learning. If you have not checked out the LLPS pictures on our web site lately, when you have a chance you might want to take a look. Also if you have any pictures of the events you would like to share with me please put them on a CD and put it in the tuition box. I love having more pictures to share with others. As always if you have any questions or comments please give me a call or you can email me.

A Note From Pastor Robert:

2012 is now upon us, and it seems like it turned 2011 days ago. And for many of you just a few years ago your little one was just coming into the world, and truly, now they are so big! As we look back at 2011, we are so happy for many things God has given to us, and look back on things we wish we could change or "undo". I know that I have one, November 30th.... And yet I can see God's big and gracious hand upon all that He has done and will continue to do in it and in the year to come. Our prayer is that you would also look back at the joys and sorrows, yet allow the good from the bad to be amplified in and through your life. Remember, your little ones with big faith are looking to your faith to anchor their souls too! (Hebrews 6:19)

It is also great to know, that our God is in the business of new beginnings. Not just when the year begins or the month or even the new week... But the Bible tells us in Lamentations 3:22-23, "Through the Lord's mercies we are not consumed, because His compassions fail not. They are new every morning; great is Your faithfulness." It may be my New Year's message every year, but it definitely is how I find hope to keep going! So as you begin to put past things in perspective, keep including spending time with the children, your family, etc. Remember, it's not about being perfect, but about putting forth the effort every day.

I fear that this year might go by fast also, but I will resolve to make every moment count, won't you? God bless you and may God bless our NEW YEAR!
